

tween Ginchy and the Leuze wood and at the Pouraux wood. Neglecting these places, the infantry swept forward around them, and by 10 o'clock in the morning had captured the whole of the village of Pouraux with its outposts, and advanced to a position beyond the village.

The outskirts of Martinpuch and Courcelles also were reached about the same time. The latter two villages fell into our hands in the course of the afternoon. The northumbrian and London territorial, Scottish and English new army divisions, with troops from Canada and New Zealand, shared with our guards the credit for these successes.

Secure on High Ground.

"On our right the enemy maintained his hold on the high ground northwest of Leuze wood, and our efforts to dislodge him were not successful. At the Pouraux wood, however, the enemy began to surrender when both his flanks were turned, and by 11 o'clock the whole wood was in our possession.

"We thus gained not only practically the whole of the ground between the Combles valley and the river Ancre, but also the last heavy punishment of the Germans. Our armored cars gallantly led the action, knocking out one machine gun and inflicting heavy losses by their machine gun fire, enfilading the German trenches and using indestructible demoralization in the enemy's ranks.

Gains South of Thiepval.

"On the 16th our troops made further progress, especially in the direction of Lesboeufs. In the course of the above operations, and in close connection with them, the new army troops have skillfully and gallantly extended our gain south of Thiepval, seizing trenches and capturing hundreds of prisoners. The result of the fighting is of great importance and is probably the most effective blow which has yet been dealt the enemy by the British troops.

"The damage to his morale is probably of greater consequence than the seizure of dominating positions and the capture of between 4,000 and 5,000 prisoners.

"To date since the 1st of July the British forces alone on the Somme battle front have made an enormous gain, and German divisions, of which twenty-nine have already been defeated and withdrawn exhausted.

"During the week in the battle area only fourteen hostile aeroplanes have been reported as crossing our lines, and our machine gunners have destroyed two thousand and three thousand flights across the enemy's lines."

FIGHTING IS DESPERATE ON THE GALICIAN FRONT

Berlin Claims Teuton Offensive Has Halted Russian Advance Against Hailce.

PETROGRAD, September 13, via London, 2:50 p.m.—Stubborn fighting is in progress between Russian and Austro-German troops in the region of the River Narayuvka, in Galicia, says the official statement issued today by the Russian war department. All the Teuton attacks, the statement adds, were repelled with heavy losses.

BERLIN, September 18, via London, September 18.—German attack against the Russians who are attempting to capture the Galician town of Hailce, resulted in the defeat of the Russians, who lost the greater portion of the territory gained Saturday, the war office announced today in a statement. The statement said that the Russian forces inflicted heavy casualties on the Germans, took 3,500 prisoners and sixteen machine guns.

SOON TO SETTLE THE ISSUE OVER SCHOONER CARGO

Claim of German Government for Arms and Ammunition Seized, Subject of Inquiry.

What shall become of the cargo of arms and ammunition taken from the schooner Annie Larsen, and claimed by the German government, probably will be determined soon by the State Department. The case has been before several government departments for months. The Secretary of the Treasury has forwarded to Secretary Lansing a report of customs officials regarding the munitions, which are stored at Hoquiam, Wash.

When the Larsen left San Diego, Cal., in March of last year, she was loaded with 4,500 rifles and 40,000 rounds of ammunition aboard were to be landed at Topolobampo, Mexico. Later, however, she turned up with her cargo at Grays Harbor, south of Puget Sound, and was seized by the customs office. The question of whether a violation of neutrality had occurred has been under investigation by the Department of Justice. The German government, in asking possession of the war cargo, has not explained, it is understood, for what purpose it was purchased, nor why the ship returned still laden to an American port.

SMALL ROBBERIES REPORTED.

Several Complaints Have Been Filed With Local Police.

Edward D. Woodward, Catlett, Va., complained to the police that he was robbed of $19.38. The money was taken from his room at 1226 Pennsylvania avenue, he stated.

Frederick Perry, 240 K street southwest, reported the loss of a gold watch valued at $20. His timepiece, he said, was stolen from the steamer St. John.

L. W. York, 1922 D street northeast, told the police that he was robbed of a houseboat on the Virginia river near Aqueduct bridge. The articles taken included a suit of clothes, a revolver and a bag of money.

Dr. F. O. Roman, 1337 R street, complained of the loss of a number of prescription blanks. Thinking the blanks were taken by a so-called "dope fiend" and that they might be presented at a drug store with the intention of obtaining drugs, he reported the loss.

Mrs. Pearl H. Smith, 15th street southeast, reported the loss of a pocketbook containing $15. The theft was committed in the street near Mrs. Herrell was making a purchase.

MORTALLY WOUNDS WIFE AND HIMSELF FOR HUGHES CLUB

Michael Strategatos, Greek Chef, Shoots Spouse, Then Fires Bullet Into His Brain.

WOMAN SUCCUMBS UPON REACHING THE HOSPITAL

Husband Also Dies Later—Tragedy Said to Have Been Result of Marital Troubles.

MICHAEL STRATEGATOS.

Michael Strategatos today shot and killed his wife, Vasiliki Strategatos, a bride of less than two months, and then killed himself. The double shooting occurred at 620 6th street northwest, and is said to have been the result of marital troubles.

Following a conversation between the pair this morning, other occupants of the house heard two shots fired in rapid succession. Crossing Policemen Davis was summoned from 5th and G streets and broke down the door. An emergency call to police headquarters brought Detectives Burlington, Kelly and Berman to the scene, and an ambulance from Casualty Hospital arrived about the same time.

Both husband and wife were alive when the ambulance reached the house, but the wife died within a short time after she reached the hospital.

The husband died at 1:45 o'clock.

Coroner Nevitt deemed an inquest unnecessary.

Strategatos a Chef.

Strategatos was thirty-two years old and was employed as chef in a luncheon room far from where he resided. His wife, who was Miss Vasiliki Calavritinos, was twenty-three years old and formerly lived at the home of one of her brothers, a huckster, near John Marshall place and Pennsylvania avenue. The couple were married at the home of the brother, a Greek priest performing the ceremony, and went to the 6th street home to live.

Ten days ago the husband called at police headquarters, told of his marital troubles and said his wife had left him. He wanted the police to find her for him, he said, in order that he might get divorce from her. The police would take no part in such a search, however, telling him they could not act in protective divorce cases.

Strategatos said he had seen his wife on the street. She would not return to him, however, and he thought the police might be able to assist him.

Sunday morning the wife visited the 6th street house and asked that she be permitted to get her clothes, but was told she would have to come when her husband was at home. The husband, who it is stated, had paid for the wedding outfit, objected to surrendering it to his wife.

"Do I have to give it to her when I paid for it?" he asked a policeman Sunday morning.

Consulted a Lawyer.

His question involved one for a lawyer to settle, he was told, and he sought the advice of Attorney John C. Foster, a neighbor. This morning shortly after 9 o'clock Mrs. Strategatos appeared at the house and asked to see her husband. The latter greeted her and escorted her to their room, on the second floor, where they were wedded.

After the ceremony, the husband and wife were in conversation. Shortly thereafter two pistol shots were fired in rapid succession. The forms of the couple were found on the floor. The bullet that killed the husband was fired from a .38 Smith & Wesson.

Mrs. Strategatos' wedding outfit was in a box on a dresser in the room. The box was open, suggesting to the police that husband and wife had opened it and viewed the clothing before the former drew his pistol and fired a bullet into his wife's head.

The three detectives wrapped the wounded couple in blankets and assisted them down the stairs to the ambulance, where Dr. Fadeloy took charge of them and hurried them to the hospital. The physician ascertained that both the husband and wife were dying and so informed the police.

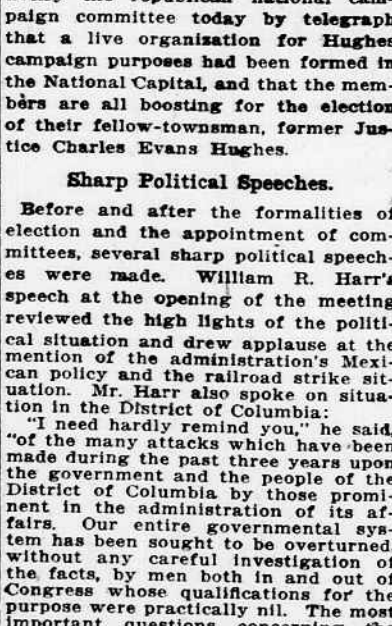

News of the double shooting caused a panic in the Greek colony. Many of the Greeks there knew of the troubles of the Strategatos, but were unwilling to discuss them.

REPUBLICAN OF C. FOR HUGHES CLUB

William R. Harr Is Elected President of Organization. Attacks on District Scored.

WOMAN SUCCUMBS UPON REACHING THE HOSPITAL

Husband Also Dies Later—Tragedy Said to Have Been Result of Marital Troubles.

WILLIAM R. HARR.

The organization of a Hughes Club of the District of Columbia with 130 representative professional and business men on the first roll call, indicates that local politics will reach the boiling point along with the campaign through out the rest of the country. The Hughes Club met for the first time last night at the New Willard Hotel, elected William R. Harr president, delegated a committee to procure headquarters before the week is up, and arranged to notify the republican national campaign committee today by telegraph that a new organization for Hughes campaign purposes had been formed in the National Capital, and that the members are all boosting for the election of their fellow-townsmen, former Justice Charles Evans Hughes.

Sharp Political Speeches.

Before and after the formalities of election and the appointment of committee, several sharp political speeches were made. William R. Harr, in a speech at the opening of the meeting reviewed the high lights of the political situation and drew applause at the mention of the administration's Mexican policy and the railroad strike situation. Mr. Harr also spoke on a situation in the District of Columbia.

"I need hardly remind you," he said, "of the many attacks which have been made upon the administration of the government and the people of the District of Columbia by those prominent in the administration of its affairs. Our entire governmental system without any careful investigation of the facts, by men both in and out of Congress whose qualifications for the purpose are entirely nil. The most important questions concerning the District's finances have been dealt with by them without regard to the actual facts, and frequently without any inquiry at all; and it is only by the most heroic efforts that the citizens of the District have been able to escape ill-considered legislation. If it had not been for some of the more experienced members of the Senate who have been hung, drawn and quartered, politically and economically speaking, by this time the situation would have been a different one."

"The result of these attacks has been that local business of all kinds in the District has been seriously depressed and that real estate values here have decreased on an average about one-third. The only high cost of living (which this administration would have increased, while the means to meet it have diminished. Nothing has been given to the people of the District for the government clerks here in the way of increased compensation, although has increased the salaries of certain high government officials."

Democrats Called Narrow.

"The underlying reason for this deplorable attitude of the present administration toward the District of Columbia, I believe, is the fact that the democratic party is, fundamentally, narrow and sectional, concerned primarily with its own local or sectional interests and apparently incapable of governing the country from a broad, national standpoint. The democrats do not seem to realize that the National Capital is a chief exponent of the pride and glory of the nation. Apparently to them it is only a petty municipality, and they have consistently during this administration sought to treat it as such."

"Ever since the time of Andrew Jackson the people of the south have had the wrong kind of political leaders—narrow, selfish men, who could not see beyond the boundaries of their state or sections. The south has needed men who have had national viewpoint like Washington, who in his farewell address deplored the idea of parties based on 'geographical discrimination.'"

Echo of Sentiment.

Oliver Metzger echoed this sentiment in a brief speech:

"Not since the days of the carpet-bag statesmen," he said, "has there been any such spectacle as the administration has offered the country through the disposition of the affairs of the National Capital."

In addition to electing Mr. Harr president, the Hughes Club of the District of Columbia elected vice presidents, as follows: Charles E. King, John B. Larner, Henry B. Macfarland, Frederick L. Taylor, Fred D. Bennett, Rufus H. Rudolph, Robert J. Wynne, Simon Wolf, Matthew Trimble, Dr. Lewis H. Wynne, B. H. Warner, Jr., Simon Wolf, Emmons S. Smith and Byron S. Adams. Louis A.
